

Continent of Brimuth

THE WORLD

This world is a place built on what existed from the peaks of others from the past. It is a world where the people get by and they struggle. Some seek comfort and help from the gods, from each other, or from technology. Regardless, there's a constant development forwards, wherever that may be.

For this we're focusing on the continent of Brimuth. However, the Climus Archipelago exists to the east, to the west there exists the continent of Eoplaes, and to the north pole there exists the warm Setrira continent.

HISTORY

Heavensfall. The day when the skies fell, a natural disaster? or divine punishment? Maybe a historian would know. This cataclysmic event reshaped the world, tilting the planet's axis and causing significant climate shifts, particularly the inversion of equatorial and polar temperatures. The event also initiated a new timeline, restarting the calendar at Year 0 Post-Heavensfall-Calamity (PHC).

From 0-3100 PHC, the world transformed significantly, beginning with recovery efforts and a great migration to the poles following the Heavensfall Calamity. In 1200 PHC, the discovery and settlement of the central continent provided new resources and some conflict.

Brimuth's History. In 2000 PHC, unification efforts on Brimuth led to the rise of major nations rather than smaller kingdoms. The Concord period (to 2430 PHC) brought stability with discoveries of ancient ruins and territorial expansion. The Freedom period (to 2610 PHC) was marked by civil wars and the rise of the Free City of Narakzdus as a trade hub.

During the Harmony period (to 2850 PHC), trade and diplomacy flourished, reducing warfare and fostering growth. The Voice period (to 3110 PHC) saw the accidental release of artifacts that caused widespread disruptions, leading to the establishment of the Peacekeepers and the creation of permanent fallout zones.

These developments shaped a continent focused on containment, recovery, and development, defining the present-day landscape. Oddly, the last 50 or so years have been extremely peaceful. So either a group or someone is working very hard to maintain it.

DEMOGRAPHICS

Folk of the continent are extremely mixed, with no real ostracization. Thus, it is more so where one is from in nation or chooses to be representative of by faction that gives a first impression of the character of a person. Seen on every street: humans, half-elves, dwarves, and half-orcs. Seen on most streets: gnomes, elves, halflings, dragonborn, orcs, goliaths, tieflings, aasimar

These are the most common races, and those that are nonetheless rare, through no fault of their own. Seen on some specific streets: leonine, tabaxi, vedalken, aarakocra, loxodon, firbolgs, turtle, and genasi. Other races are rare enough to be merely rumours to others.

RELIGION

The gods all have their own churches; however, the scale and presence of the churches vary with the presence of their god. The high gods have the highest presence. They largely always aim to expand their devout believers to garner more faith. Many a believer does not only worship a specific god, unless they are very relevant to their lifestyle. As a normal person would offer faith simply depending on what they're doing in that moment. For example:

- The rituals of marriage, pray to 'Elarion, the Tradesman's Trust' and 'Amorya, the Flame of Passion'.
- Praying for a lost loved one, pray to 'Loranthya, the Unforgotten Death'.
- Hoping for the fields to be bountiful, pray to 'Solara, the Radiant Dawn' and 'Enosais, Lord of the Earthen Depths'.

Countries. There are many countries in present day Brimuth, as seen on the map. However, there are 3 of them that have the most geopolitical influence.

- Council of Arinia: Known for its powerful mages and extremely deep ancient ruins, Arinia is a magical hub where the Council governs as the magical center of the continent.
- Divine Empire of Ceqrud: A theocratic nation of a divine emperor and seven saints, where religion and divine favour play crucial roles in governance and society. Has the largest population on the continent.
- Narakzdus: Narakzdus, the Free City, is a bustling maritime trade hub that connects the important Lake Hellunora with the continent's coastline. Renowned for its vibrant markets, diverse population, and spirit of independence.

The other nations get by, unique in their own ways:

- Dominion of Mathe: Known for its strong centralized government and efficient administration. A technological powerhouse with a rich history of craftsmanship and art.
- Duchy of Do'anead: Though a relatively new nation, boasts an ancient noble lineage and a monopoly on significant ruins, making it a land of intrigue and hidden power.

- Gathelian United Tribes: A coalition of tribal groups somewhat united under a common banner, the tribes are known for their fierce independence, strong cultural traditions, and efforts to maintain their autonomy.
- Grand Duchy of Zinulbhur: A powerful monarchy with strategic western trade routes, is known for its close ties to the Kingdom of Namunzda and Rumors of devilish influences.
- Holy State of Rili: A religious state with significant influence over regional diplomacy and conflict resolution, Rili plays a key role in fostering peace and stability through its spiritual and moral leadership.
- Kingdom of Namunzda: Known for its resource-rich lands and complex political landscape, featuring both surface-level and subterranean communities.
- Kingdom of Rou: A powerful monarchy renowned for its consistent military vigilance and routes eastwards.
- Kingdom of Yicur: A kingdom dedicated to preserving the Karoseche River. Known for its exploration and adaptation.
- Kusbachian Marches: A union of three territories known for their difficult wetland landscapes and independent spirit.
- Sirian Theocracy: A religious nation famous for its Healing Springs and pilgrimage routes. The Silent are based here as followers of Loranthya, the Unforgotten Death.

WASTELANDS

Wasteland	Size	Country
Wild Jungle	Large	Gathel
Consecrated Valley	Large	Ceqrud
Shattered Veil	Large	Mathe

A wasteland is a severely damaged or barren area, often characterized by its inhospitable environment and lack of viable resources that make it unsuitable for human habitation. These areas can result from natural disasters, magical cataclysms, or other catastrophic events.

SOME FACTIONS

Faction	Alignment	Activities and/or Duties	Organization Type
Cult of the Comet	Chaotic Evil	Political Corruption, Violence	Cult
Healers' Consortium	Lawful Good	Volunteer, Medical	Conglomerate
Kleptocrats	Chaotic Evil	Financial Crime, Smuggling	Guild

Merchants	Chaotic	Transportation, Company
League	Neutral	Trade
Peacekeepers	Lawful	Strategic,	Task Force
	Neutral	Support
Silent	Lawful	Charity,	Order
	Neutral	Counselling

The key continental factions that influence the continent, having an outpost or an individual in every city. With decently granted rights in each country, they survey their local responsibilities.

- Healers' Consortium: Founded centuries ago during a devastating plague that swept across Brimuth. The Consortium is dedicated to preserving life and alleviating suffering. They believe in making medical care accessible to everyone, regardless of status or wealth.
- Kleptocrats: The largest criminal guild in Brimuth refers to themselves as the "thieving aristocrats." Concentrated in the Speckled Highlands, this band of ruthless cutthroats engages in various crimes, from assassinations and extortion to smuggling and theft.

- Peacekeepers: Formed in response to the artifacts that caused the Shattered Veil catastrophe. They work towards securing and neutralizing dangerous relics and locations.

As for other factions, ones limited to a country or limited to within a city settlement. Some of these function as branches of the larger factions or are entirely independent factions. Then there is of course the government factions that contest for power in a given nation.

STARTING AREAS

Could start a campaign based around a city:

- Dis: Capital of the Council of Arinia. Magic and deep ruins, ruled by the Eight Mages.
- Free City: Narakzdus, the Free City. Built of canals of riches, ruled by the Three Houses.

Or alternatively, start somewhere in the wilderness and explore towards whichever direction.
